Local Crop Conditions Fields Need Rain

The district is still in need of a good soaking rain. Showers have fallen on two occasions during the week, but they have been very light, and have merely settled the dust and kept things from burning quite so badly. But the moisture is not soaking down very far to the point where it will help the grain to fill and save it from further damage from drought.

The pastures are brown and bare and stock is getting little surplus fat on them for the fall and winter. Outside of the irrigated hay crop, there has been very little to cut, and the winter feed problem will likely be severe unless we have heavy and continued early fall rains. At present the prospects of a straw crop is not very heartening as the grain crop will be light.

Beets are doing very well, and are about the most promising crop of the lot this year. Damage has been slight, and the usual heavy tonnage will be harvested unless some untoward circumstances develop between now and harvest time to spoil the present rosy outlook. With the shortage of feed apparent, it is likely that the Sugar Factory will find ready sale for the pulp and beetlasses they have for sale.

Taylor Stake Track Meet Held

The Taylor Stake Track Meet was held last Saturday afternoon with a limited attendance of fans, and competition largely limited to the Stirling and Raymond Second Wards, with one competitor from Magrath, and one entry from the Raymond 1st Ward.

The events were good, some good marks being made, and competition was keen in most classes, but generally was limited to two or three contestants at the outside, hence there was not the rivalry, enthusiasm or general interest that should have been manifest.

The day was well organized and the events called and run off in a very businesslike manner, but because of the lack of participation of several of the wards interest was lacking, and the meet resolved it into a contest between the Raymond Second Ward and Stirling. The Raymond Second Ward won in the number of points, because of the quantity of contestants, but the Stirling entries were game, put up real competition in the events they entered and best of all were good losers when someone else took the honors.

Following are the winners in the various events:—

With the continuation of the dry weather, the farmers of the district are wondering whether the advance in the price of wheat is going to be a benefit or a detriment to them.

St. wheat is in fact but with price of groceries, clothing, and other staples mounting in sympathy with wheat, and no wheat, or very little to sell, we wonder what can be used for money to pay the higher price.

Life Membership in Women's Institute For Mrs. Nilsson

The W. I. entertained at a delightful dinner on Thursday night, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Alfred. The following program was enjoyed: Soprano solo, "Out of the Dusk," Mrs. D. Watson, accompanied by Mrs. Tollestrup; Mrs. G. W. Tollestrup gave two humorous readings; Mrs. Ole Erickson, acting as her own accompanist sang "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" and "Leave the Beautiful Gates Ajar"; Mrs. C. Nilsson accompanied by Mrs. Erickson gave as a musical reading, "Rain on the Roof"; Mrs. Paul Dahl gave a splendid rendition of an unusual pianoforte arrangement of "Home, Sweet Home." Bridge was enjoyed the balance of the afternoon. A motion was formed and carried giving to Mrs. C. Nilsson a life membership in the organization. This was in honor of Mrs. Nilsson's birthday and her long membership, having been a charter member. A dainty lunch was served during which time much merriment was caused by Mrs. T. Allen reading the tea cups. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Mrs. Jack Ford, program, and Mrs. F. Leavitt, Mrs. J. Kirkham, Mrs. M. Alfred, Mrs. F. Hall, lunch. Thirty ladies attended this pleasant affair.

Funeral Services For Leslie Schneider

Funeral services over the remains of little Leslie Schneider were held in the Second Ward Chapel on Friday last, with Bishop Jas. H. Walker in charge, and a very nice crowd present. Floral offerings were beautiful and profuse, and were carried to and from the building by young girls of tender years, and four boys about eight years of age, carried the small white casket to and from the Chapel.

Fritz Gemlich had charge of the singing, and the hymn were "Oh, My Father," and "I Need Thee Every Hour." A vocal duet by Mesdames Lattman and Reithmen, a Solo by Mrs. Blanche Scoville, and a Ladies Trio by Mesdames L. D. King, J. H. Walker and Mrs. Wyona Hawkins were also rendered.

The opening prayer was by T. Geo. Wood and the benediction by Pres. J. W. Evans.

Speakers were, W. A. Heninger, Pres. H. S. Allen, and Bishop J. H. Walker, who all offered sympathy and comfort to the sorrowing parents and relatives in their bereavement and who extolled the beauties of the Resurrection, and the teachings of the Savior, that though parted for a time, the father and mother would have the privilege of rearing their son to maturity, and that in the wisdom of God there was no doubt but what the present experience was for the best and would be a blessing in years to come.

Interment was made in the local cemetery, a large cortege following the body to its last resting place.

Mrs. F. R. Taylor was hostess at a delightful Golfing Bridge Party last Thursday night to a few of the neighbors and friends. Honors for the evening went to Lee Brewster and Mrs. Dr. Leech.

The Mennonite Colony at the Buck Ranch, about 8 miles south of town suffered a heavy loss on Sunday last when a large barn was destroyed by fire which was started by lightning.

About 3:30 there was a heavy electric storm brewing, and one bolt of lightning struck the barn and according to Paul Wipf, Manager, cut the barn as completely in two as it could have been done with a saw, and the hay immediately took fire. Rushing from the house to the barn, the door was thrown open, and the entire inside was a mass of flames.

Everyone turned to to save what could be gotten out, which was only ten sets of harness, a few collars, the horse that was in the barn, and a few small items, while all the rest went up in the flames, including forty tons of hay, forty sets of harness, ninety horse collars, some machinery and so on. The loss is a heavy one.

The barn was a huge structure being 66x210, and was forty feet high, and was built in 1912 by the Knight Sugar Co. A south wind followed by a shower was the only thing that saved the other buildings, as during the time the fire was at its worst, the people standing by the house had to shield their faces with their hands to ward off the heat.

Visitors to the ranch after the blaze stated that all that was left of the huge barn was the stumps of a few of the 8x8 inch sticks that formed part of the skeleton of the barn.

OPENING TRADE GATES

Among the eleven nations first invited to the pre-War Economic Conference parleys at Washington were four Latin American states. Eventually, nearly all of them were invited to confer with President Roosevelt on matters relating to trade and finance. These moves were the first indication that the new American President was fully aware of the importance of the Latin-American republic in the economic life of the world and their significance to North American trade.

The Latin Americans were pleased by Mr. Roosevelt's manner. Without referring to isms, good will or inter-American friendship, and without that unintentional note of condescension, which has tainted too many inter-American conferences and conversations, he conferred with the Latin Americans as he did with the Europeans.

Now it has been announced that the President is opening up new avenues of approach to the Latin-American republic. He has already conferred with Senor Felipe Espil, the Argentine Ambassador, and has caused the Acting Secretary of State to approach Brazil, Chile and Colombia with suggestions and propositions for bettering the trade between the United States and these republics. Other Latin-American nations are also to be included in this new effort to regain, keep, or increase the trade of the United States with the southern republics.

President Roosevelt is not seeking to break down tariff walls but merely to open some gates to Latin-American commodities. Nor is he trying to force all exportable American goods upon the Latin Americans. He is acting consistently with his attitude toward the World Economic Conference and endeavoring to promote only such interchanges of goods as will be mutually profitable. He proposes to admit only those commodities of Latin America which will not compete with United States products, or competitive goods at times when American products are not in season.

For example (and this indicates the knowledge of the President, or of his advisers of Latin America's products), Argentine apples might be imported in the three months when American apples are out of the running. Furthermore it has been suggested that Paraguayan tea might be imported on a larger scale. This will not compete with anything produced in the United States and will build up dollar balances in the United States which Latin Americans can use for the purchase of American goods and for the payment of defaulted bonds. There should be a possibility, too, of trading American motorcars and farm machines for Argentine flaxseed and caseine.

The new manner of approach to the Latin-American republics is worthy of commendation. There is a refreshing matter-of-factness, an informed realism about it which will please the Latin Americans. They will see and feel in the background of all such negotiations something of the manner European nations employed in their trade and diplomatic negotiations in Latin America. This friendly, but factual, treatment will undoubtedly remove one of the strongest barriers to inter-American trade.—Christian Science Monitor.

Province of Alberta Weekly Crop Report

No. 8, 1933

(Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton,
Monday, July 15, 1933)

The general crop situation in southern Alberta has not improved during the past two weeks. Scattered showers have occurred in the southern and south-eastern part of the province but these have not been sufficient to overcome drought and insect damage previously reported. In some of this area, particularly in that lying between the Coronation branch of the C.P.R. and the Red Deer River, crop conditions may be regarded as serious. In the irrigated districts fairly satisfactory conditions prevail, but on the dryland especially on spring plowing there has been severe crop damage due to hot dry winds and lack of moisture. In the area along the southern boundary from Milk River thru to Kermest and Manyberries there has been considerable moisture throughout the season so that the crop in this district is in fair condition. Generally speaking the balance of the territory south of Cains and Crossfield has not received sufficient moisture and as a result there will be a short crop. Throughout north-central and northern Alberta, reports indicate very satisfactory conditions. Frequent showers have occurred over all this area, in some instances amounting to more than two inches of precipitation during the past two weeks.

Reports indicate that the damage from grasshoppers and other pests has not been serious. In a few instances where infestation has been most severe and where drought conditions have greatly retarded crop growth, grasshoppers have caused further deterioration. Hail has damaged crops in a few small areas but it is generally conceded that the attendant moisture has more than offset the damage due to this cause.

The greater part of the wheat crop, with the exception of that in the Peace River districts, is now in head. In the latter district heading has commenced and is progressing under most favorable conditions. Oats and barley are in the shot blade.

Hay is in progress in practically every part of the province. In the first cut of alfalfa on the irrigated land is already in the stack and irrigation of the second crop is taking place. In central and northern Alberta alfalfa and other cuttings hay crops are being cut. There will be a marked shortage of hay in the southern and south-central areas but conditions with regard to this crop are most satisfactory in the northern half of the province.

Under rains relieve the situation within a very short time, there will be a distinct pasture and feed shortage in those districts where drought has been most severe.

The sugar beet crop on the irrigated lands of the south is making satisfactory progress and give indications of average yield.

NO SUMMER SLUMP

If the traditional "summer slump" in business ever existed, it isn't a factor this year. As the days wax hotter, business seems to grow better. Calendar reform seems to have succeeded as regards the business calendar.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANIES
IN CANADA

THEN AND NOW

On September 13, 1660, Samuel Pepys recorded the following in terse item in his diary:—"This day the Duke of Gloucester died of the smallpox by the great negligence of the doctors." It is not disclosed by Pepys wherein he thought the Duke's medical attendants were negligent as neither was there then, nor is there now a specific cure for smallpox. The only way to prevent deaths from this disease is to prevent its occurrence.

Those were days when protection in the form of vaccination was unknown. A crude method of prevention which aimed to cause a mild form of the disease existed. There was always the grave danger, however, of the occurrence of the disease in its more severe form, and of its spreading to others. It was not until one hundred and thirty years after the note of the diarist that the English physician, Jenner, established the scientific method known as vaccination.

In the meantime smallpox stalked throughout the world, numbering its victims by the millions. Few there were who escaped. Those who suffered but survived, showed the ugly scars of the disease. The victims of smallpox were chiefly children, and ninety out of every hundred were under ten years of age. It is related that in the eighteenth century, no less than sixty millions of people died of smallpox. A conservative estimate placed the number of deaths in Europe at four hundred thousand annually.

In the previous century, plague was the great destroyer. It too numbered its victims by the millions. In the year 1665, no fewer than sixty-nine thousand deaths from plague occurred in London. On the continent, the deaths were considerably more numerous, and in one year, five hundred thousand people in the Venetian republic succumbed.

Nobody living in the twentieth century regrets that these scourges belong to the distant past. Smallpox has lost its terror, and plague is practically unknown where sound health measures are practised. The control of smallpox depends upon each succeeding generation's availing itself of the protection that vaccination alone confers. Plague is controlled by the rigid enforcement of well established legislation with regard to rats and quarantine.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

To all intents and purposes this is destined to be a summer for doing business. Everybody isn't going to be working nor are the stores, factories and railroads going to reach a new peak of activity and prosperity, but they are going to do business and people are going to work as they have not done for several years.

Indisputable signs of business recovery are in the air. The current review of Dun and Bradstreet shows that all retail lines are enjoying a business revival of large proportions. People are even buying jewelry furniture, radios and automobiles again. The railroads are reporting a profit, which means increased car loadings. Wages are going up and people are returning to work by the hundreds of thousands.

The fellow who sang of "The Good Old Summertime" had something to sing about if it was such a summer as this. Only in summer do dwellers in the temperate zone really live, and many, who little more than existed since 1929, are really living again this summer.

Local Retailers

You Have Rights

You know that a manufacturer includes in the selling price of his product a percentage for press advertising—a percentage ranging from 3 to 5 per cent—sometimes, even more—when consumer-resistance is great or when the gross profit margin is very large. So, when a manufacturer spends $50,000 a year on press advertising, it can be assumed that the total annual sales of his product amount to from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

Now, if you are stocking a nationally-advertised product—advertised in big-city dailies and in nationally circulated magazines, you have a right to see this product also being locally advertised—in this newspaper. Your total annual sales of the maker's product, joined to those of its other local distributors (if there are others), entitle you to demand that the product be locally advertised in this newspaper.

If the maker or his representative talks to you about the advertising being done for the product in big-city dailies and in national magazines, tell him that upwards of 90 per cent. of the families in your sales territory do not subscribe to a big-city daily or to a national magazine; and that, therefore, he is putting on YOUR shoulders the burden of creating and maintaining sales.

Clearly, it is not RIGHT that you should be required to promote the sale of a product in the territory served by this newspaper, without receiving from the manufacturer the same kind and degree of sales assistance which he is giving retailers resident in cities where he is spending a lot of money on local advertising.

Quite too often manufacturers don't want to advertise in local weekly newspapers, saying that it costs too much. They forget, however, that their sales in towns served by weekly newspapers provide an advertising fund which should be spent locally. Why should the contributions from local sales to the maker's advertising fund be spent outside the local sales territory?

You have your business to build up, and to the extent that you help manufacturers to obtain and retain sales in this territory, to that extent you should receive local advertising assistance.

You've got a first-class case to put before manufacturers who want you to stock and push the sales of their product, then why not present it, either direct, or through the maker's representative when he calls?

(N.B.—CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT, AND SHOW IT TO THE REPRESENTATIVE OF FIRMS WHOSE PRODUCTS YOU ARE ASKED TO STOCK AND PUSH).

WILL REPUBLIC SURVIVE

Remember this as you celebrate the First of July: No governmental system ever yet devised by the wit of man is strong enough to resist the corroding selfishness of human nature.

In spite of all our proud brags, by after-dinner orators, the fate of Canada is in the end subject to the identical ordeals that doomed all other governmental experiments—from the days of the Pharaohs, to passing of the Russia of yesterday.

Indulge your own luxury, idleness, squandering, forget your country, and your republic cannot long survive.

Love your country, uphold your country, be proud of your country; and the people of this land shall live long.

They say: Rome fell before the Goths, coming out of the Teutonic forests, breaking down the walls of Rome, destroying the ancient civilization, replacing culture with barbarism.

All wrong. Rome committed race-suicide; refused to breed her own kind; and many hundreds of years before the days of the Hun the Roman Empire was digging her own grave. The coming of the barbarians was a mere episode.

The say: Greece fell before the Romans for conquering. Not at all. The sap of Greece's youth was gone. She no longer had a sense of self-protection. Family brawls, bickering, rivalry of hilltop cities, "the glory that was Greece" was forgotten in petty selfishness of rival rulers. She even forgot how to defend herself. Then, along came the Romans, who placed on the necks of the Greeks the iron collar of the conqueror. The famous Greek marbles were knocked down, shipped to Rome, there sent to the kilns, burnt to make lime for building walls, aqueducts, pavements. What a satire on man's finite littleness.

CANNING HINTS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The canning season opens early in May at the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden. Asparagus comes first. This with other non-acid vegetables as peas and beans, should have one teaspoon of lemon juice added to the quart jar to prevent development of botulism.

Small beets may be canned for vegetables by packing in sterilized jars after blanching fifteen minutes and skimming, then to 1 quart jar add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon vinegar, then fill to overflowing with boiling water and process one hour.

Tomato Juice, one of the new home canned products, depends largely on the choice of mildly acid ripe tomatoes for its fine flavour, and upon the despatch in handling for its nutritive value. Stem and core the tomatoes, slightly crush, and bring almost to the boil, season to taste and seal in bottles or jars, and process two minutes for bottles and five minutes for jars.

Strawberries retain their colour, and remain distributed in jars when canned by the overnight method. Simmer for 5 minutes in syrup (3 cups sugar to 2 cups water, leaving uncovered overnight. In the morning pack in jars and process eight minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nilsson and son Jack, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Nilsson, left for the United States on Sunday for a trip. It is understood that medical aid will be sought for Mrs. C Nilsson and for Jack.

Week-end visitors at Waterton Park from Raymond included: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wine, Mr. and Mrs. Roi Stone, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Christie and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Farnett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Alfred and family, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, Messrs Gerald Gibb and Reed Kirkham, and Misses L. Nelson, Emma Hicken and Edith Woolley.

Jellies has been that made from Prunus Tomentosa, or Nanking Cherry, while the underripe Compass Cherry makes an excellent product, as also does rhubarb if used at the very first of the season. White Currants and Gooseberry rank high for standard tart jellies, and Hibernian Apple and Dolgo Crab for mild jelly, the latter being colourful.

In jam making, among the hybrid plums the Red Wing variety stands highest while Kaga and Ilanska also give popular apricot flavoured jam. If commercial pectin is used in their preparation, more of the natural flavour and colour is retained.

The hybrid plums are best canned in the open kettle until the skins are tender. The Red-ilda Crab Apple, packed and cooked in the jar is a high quality product of smooth texture, suggesting canned pears.

May wheat went over the dollar mark in Winnipeg on Saturday, the first time in over three years, when it reached $1.01 and 1-8. July wheat that day was 92½ in Winnipeg.

With the mighty Yellow River of China in flood, millions in that part of the world are facing famine, as crops are in danger of being devastated by the flood waters.

Many Raymond people were disappointed at not winning the Car given away the last night of the Fair. It was won by Miss Tennant, of Lethbridge on the first draw.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brewerton left Monday for a week's holiday which will take them to Vancouver, Seattle and other coast points.

The question Tuesday was not "who is going to Lethbridge," but "who is staying home." Many people went over to view the monster Parade on Tuesday morning.

Miss Thelma Dimond and her mother Alma, and Mrs. Peterson, all of Salt Lake City, and relatives of the C. B. Stone family, pleasantly surprised the latter last week, when they walked in on them at their home here, without even an intimation that they were coming. They will spend ten days or more with their relatives here before returning home.
